Emixa and Nextage Partner to Drive Digital Transformation in the Nordics

Naarden / Stockholm – September 9th, 2025 – Emixa, a leading European digital transformation consultancy and Siemens, SAP, and Mendix specialist, today announced a strategic partnership alliance with Nextage Group to accelerate digital transformation across the Nordic manufacturing industry. This collaboration marks Emixa's formal entry into the Nordic region, combining Emixa's international expertise with Nextage's strong local presence. We plan to pursue additional partnerships in Nordics to expand further.

Collaboration

Nextage is a recognized Siemens Digital Industries Software partner in the Nordics, with activities and offices in Sweden, Finland and Denmark, supporting clients in their digital transformation journeys with deep industry knowledge, proven advisory and implementation expertise. By teaming with Emixa, Nextage gains access to Emixa's extensive international resources, methodologies, and best practices in PLM, ERP, low-code, data & analytics, and integration.

This collaboration enables Nextage to scale its offerings and deliver more comprehensive digital solutions to manufacturing clients across the region. At the same time, it positions Emixa as a trusted partner for Nordic companies looking to benefit from world-class capabilities in Siemens, SAP, and Mendix technologies.

Support from Siemens

Jonathan Stjernlöf, Siemens Sales Director for the Nordics, commented:

"This partnership between Emixa and Nextage is an important step for the Nordics ecosystem. Emixa brings a wealth of international experience and proven delivery capacity, while Nextage contributes strong local market knowledge and customer relationships. Together, they will help manufacturers, with our support, in the region accelerate their digital transformation journeys with Siemens technology at the core."

Strategic Expansion

With this step, Emixa builds on its growth trajectory across Europe. Already active in the Benelux, DACH, and UK&I regions, Emixa now establishes a strong presence in the Nordics through the partnership with Nextage.

Peter-Jan Simons, CEO of Emixa, stated:

"Entering the Nordics together with Nextage is a significant milestone for Emixa. Our combined capabilities create a powerful proposition: Nextage as a strong regional player, and Emixa as the international accelerator that brings knowledge, experience, and resources to scale. Together, we will support Nordic manufacturers in becoming more digital, efficient, and future-ready."

Tapio Juurakko, CEO, founder and owner of Nextage Group, added:

"We are proud to join forces with Emixa in this strategic alliance partnership. Nextage has built strong local expertise and trusted customer relationships in the Nordics. By leveraging Emixa's international knowledge base and broad technology portfolio, we can take the next step in scaling our business and delivering even greater value to our clients."
